

Applauding the 2017 American Nurses Foundation Scholars

The American Nurses Foundation is grateful for the generosity of supporters over the last 62 years who have made it possible to award more than $5 million to more than 1,100 beginning and experienced nurse researchers.

The Foundation completed its 2017 annual research grant process in August. The nursing research grant program review committee was led by Chair Sandra L. Smith, PhD, APRN, NNP-BC, associate professor at the University of Louisville School of Nursing; and Vice Chair Gordon L. Gillespie, PhD, DNP, RN, CEN, CNE, CPEN, PHCNS-BC, FAEN, FAAN, associate professor, deputy director of occupational health nursing program, interim associate dean for research and translation, at the University of Cincinnati.

Twenty-five grants were awarded to nurse researchers across the country, and totaled over $280,000, through funding by 17 external funding associations and 11 endowments.

The research projects focus on a variety of nursing science topics, from educational intervention for emergency department nurses responding to opioid overdoses; to infant and maternal stress and attachment in the cardiac intensive care unit; to a cognitive behavior skills-building intervention for asthma patients; and improving cardiac recovery with training in emotion regulation.

We proudly welcome these scholars to our flagship Nursing Research Grants program.
